Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 09 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cloudy Saturday, patchy rain later. Brighter but fresher Sunday.

Today:
Remaining rather warm, but staying on the cloudy side throughout. Early low cloud should develop some breaks to give some limited brighter intervals for a time, before thicker cloud makes a return later, coupled with patchy rain. Light winds. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Tonight:
Rather cloudy and damp during the evening, but becoming drier and clearer from the north during the early hours, giving a markedly colder end to the night than of late. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Sunday:
After a bright but chilly start, a fresher day should follow, with plenty of sunny spells. Some fair weather cloud should develop later, with a breeze also picking up. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Probably on the cloudy side again to start the working week, with the odd spot of rain possible, but becoming drier and brighter towards midweek.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.